To whom it may concern,

I write to confirm that Tania Burris was employed by the Family Education Network from 2010 to 2014 as a Flash/ActionScript game developer. Tania was responsible for the development of numerous scenes and mini games across many of the most popular islands of Poptropica, an online virtual world played and loved by millions of kids.

Tania proved to be a talented programmer and a hard-working, reliable, and dedicated employee. She demonstrated skill not only in programming, but also in game design and visual aesthetic, always adding a special touch to each task she was assigned. She successfully managed many development and game design tasks under tight deadlines, each with its own unique set of engineering and design challenges.

Tania has been a great asset to our team and has my strong recommendation. If you have any further questions, feel free to contact me.

Sincerely,

Jordan Leary
